

Mr. Massimo Beber

Sidney Sussex College

Mr. Beber is the Senior Tutor and Director of Studies in Economics at Sidney Sussex College; since 1995, he has also been a Visiting Professor in International Economics at ASERI (the Graduate School in Economics and International Relations), Catholic University of Milan.

His academic publications and current projects include the following:

“Real Business Cycles” in Allington, Nigel and John McCombie (editors) Cambridge Essays in Applied Economics, Cambridge, Cambridge University Press (forthcoming).

World Finance Between Evolution and Revolution: Lessons for a New Financial Architecture from the International Economics Debate at Chatham House, London, Royal Institute of International Affairs (forthcoming, with Brigitte Granville)

'One Careful Driver from New': Earning the European Central Bank's No Claims Bonus", Journal of Common Market Studies (Special Issue: Annual Review of the Activities of the EU)

“International Finance and Chatham House: Rules of Engagement”, The World Today (March, with Brigitte Granville), pp. 26-27

Further details of Mr. Beber’s activities can be found at <http://people.pwf.cam.ac.uk/mb65/>

While the bulk of his teaching is in international macroeconomics, Massimo Beber has been involved in graduate, management and professional development teaching for a number of years, primarily through the Centre of International Studies (Area Co-ordinator for European Economics, M.Phil. in Contemporary European Studies; and International Political Economy, M.St. in International Relations), but also in collaboration with the Department of Continuing Education (IBM International Summer Programme; Senior Officers courses), the Cambridge Programme for Industry (Marconi Industries MBA), and the Graduate School in Economics and International Relations of the Catholic University of Milan, Italy, where he has been a Visiting Lecturer since 1996. Mr. Beber is also an Associated Fellow of the International Economics Programme of the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House), London.