

Dr. Geoffrey Ingham

Fellow Christ's College

Emeritus Reader in Political Economy & Sociology University of Cambridge

Dr. Geoffrey Ingham received his BA from The University of Leicester and his PhD from the University of Cambridge.

He worked in the Faculty of Economics and Politics at the University of Cambridge for twenty five years, then moved to the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences in 1995.

He is also a Life Fellow at Christ's College, Cambridge.

Dr. Ingham is the author of a number of books and numerous articles in the field of economic sociology and political economy. He recently presented a report on the impact of 'e-money' to a conference of bankers and government officials in Luxembourg which was published by the OECD. His books include;

Capitalism Divided? The City & Industry in British Social Development (1984)

The Nature of Money (2004)

Capitalism (2008) translated in Italian, Spanish, Polish, and Korean